mprovement is Gradual, but None the Less tion Bring Many Pointers, Some Consolation and Not a Little Pointed Criticism.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 9.—(Special Correspondence.)-Time and again during the past three or four years it has been asserted by the prophets of the business world that the country was on the verge of a general revival of trade, and each time these prophecies have proven false. After so many failures the prophets have grown cautious and even the most optimistic are very guarded in what they say for fear of provoking a smile from the in-

A week ago I called attention in these columns to the indisputable fact that business conditions in Omena were slowly but surely on the mend, as evidenced by the reports of representatives of the leading departments of trade. While the upward movement is so gradual that no great change is noticeable from one week to the next. the change for the better becomes quite the change for the better becomes quite apparent when comparisons are made to cover a period of sixty to ninety days, and it is doubtful if a business man can be found in Omaha who will not admit that his business shows material gain over a year ago. That there should be a gain in the volume of business doing at this time is generally accredited to the fact that considerable money is going back into Netraska from the sale of live stock and corn and that the money thus released is finding its way into mercantile chambels.

Straws indicate the direction of the wind, and from the many little things which I have noted since leaving Omaha I am free to say that the slight improvement at Omaha is the experience of business men generally in widely separated localities. To be sure, the improvement is usually spoken of as local, and due to purely local causes, but it is a question whether there is not some invisible force of widespread character underlying these local manifestationant lending them additional strength. Conversation with a great many traveling men who have been out over the country in all directions brings out a good many facts bearing on this question. The most of them still call trade duli, generally speaking, but almost every one Gad a story to tell of what a good business he had in some special locality. One man, just back from the coast, was very enthusiastic over the trade in Spokane and other points in Washington and British Columbia. He said that he sold more goods this trip than at any previous time in four years. He ascribed cause is one thing, in another something different, but the truth remains that in almost all localities, so far as I can learn, from observation and inquiry, there has been a change in the business situation and that change for the better.

HARD TIMES NOT PURELY LOCAL. Straws indicate the direction of the wind,

HARD TIMES NOT PURELY LOCAL. HARD TIMES NOT PURELY LOCAL.

There is another fact that is well worth attention. A man who has been tied down to business in Omaha for the last two or three years, with no time to visit other cities, sees only the conditions immediately surrounding himself, and gradually comes to think that his city is getting the worst of the dull times. A few days spent in traveling about the country soon convince him that other cities have had their troubies and that all have suffered very nearly alike. I made the acquaintance of a citizen of Dallas, which is considered one of the best business points in Texas, and though asserting that the clouds were not quite so black, he was feeling decidedly "blue" and somewhat discouraged. Some of the oldest and most conservative business men and somewhat discouraged. Some of the oldest and most conservative business men in the city had failed in the past year or two and one of the largest hotels in the city larger than any in Omaha, was pracifically closed. After a little the remarked that some way my face looked very familiar to him, and I told him that while we did not have any one in omaha with exactly his face I could name several business men who could duplicate his talk with surprising exactness. There is so much complaint in Omaha at times about rall-road rates that I felt quite at home among the Dallas people when they started on that subject. Their special grievance is that Nebraska and Kansas corn is shipped from Kansas City to Galveston at a lower rate than on Texas corn loaded at Dallas, though the latter point is 509 miles nearer rate than on Texas corn loaded at Dallas though the latter point is 500 miles neare Galveston than Kansas City.

STOCK YARDS TALK.

At the Kansus City stock yards all interests were worrying very much over the bill recently enacted by the Kansus legislature cutting down charges on stock. This bill, in most respects, is very similar to the one introduced in the Nebraska legislature. The Kansus City yards have one advantage over the South Omaha people, as they are located on the state line, partly in Kansus and partly in Missouri. The state line passes through the exchange building and it is possible to move from one state to the other by simply crossing the hall. The only trouble is the Missouri legislature may enact the same kind of a law. The general sentiment seemed to be that no attention would be paid to the new law until a test case was made and the question settled in the courts.

It is a pleasure to look over the Kansus City yards. The alleys and many of the pens are paved with brick and they are kept clean in strong contest to some other yards. The street cars run down to the entrance to the yards, within a few rods of the exchange building, instead of leaving one a quarter of a mile to walk, as at South Omaha.

Every facility is afforded the newspapers at the Kansus City yards, and they are STOCK YARDS TALK.

IN SOUTHERN TEXAS. IN SOUTHERN TEXAS.

Here in San Antonio business is decidedly brisk to all appearances, but some of it may be of only a temporary character. The city is full of stockmen attending the annual meeting of the Live Stock association, and there are large delegations of commission men from the northern markets. Every hotel is full to overflowing and boarding houses and private residences are giving shelter to hundreds. The narrow streets of San Antonio are crowded all day and merchants are reaping a harvest.

The country surrounding the city appears to be in a fairly prosperous condition, corn and garden vegetables are up and fruit frees in blossom. The warm and dry climate makes this a favorite resort for peo-

"The week just past has encouraged everybody. Although between seasons and necessarily dull, the evidences of a recovery have not been wanting. Nothing so surely heralds a return of activity in business as actual construction of buildings. While there has been no boom in building trades and contractors declare feat competition is too sharp for either good or profitable work, the fact remains that work has sone on all winter in various parts of the city. Pweilings, flats and business houses have been pushed to completion in spile of wintry weather and the amouncements are now made for at least two substantial business blocks, to say nothing of smaller structures here and there. Compared with 1859 and the years on either side that high water mark the enterprises now under way are triffing, but considering the times and the general feeling that Omaha is over-built already, the work in hand and in immediate prospect foreshadows no little activity for next season.

"Perhaps citizens of Omaha generally do not fully appreciate the importance of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben as a local institution. Those who bave never paid tribute to the king of Queera are ignorant of the work accomplished from year to year, as well as bereft of reminiscences which will brighten all their remaining days. To citizens generally it will be interesting to know that at the Mardl Gras in New Orleans this year, the parades of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha came in for most favorable commont. In two years this association has spread the fame of Omaha and its knightly cohorts from sea to sea. The time is close at hand when not to be a knight of Ak-Sar-Ben will be a reproach to a citizen of Omaha away from home.

Wheat Closes the Week with a Decided Upward Movement.

ADVANCE OF THREE-EIGHTHS FOR THE DAY

Serious Reports of Winter Killing, Especially in Illinois, Give Great Strength to the Market-Corn and Oats Firm.

CHICAGO, March 13.-Wheat closed the week's trading on the upgrade and with an dyance of %c from yesterday's close. The narket started weak as usual, but the rather sensational Illinois crop report strengthened it very suddenly. Corn and oats were firm, but with no particular change in prices, Provisions advanced from 2½c to 10c, Wheat opened with all the symptoms of a decline, which have become so familiar to traders the past week. A decline at Liverpool of 14d per cental, notwithstanding yesterday's advance here, caused this market to open weak and had it not been for the Illinois state crop report, which was published today, the market might have continued on the down grade. It was a great surprise to the trade to be informed that from 15 per cent to the entire area seeded in the state had been winter killed and that in many counties the entire area seeded will be plowed up. That started prices in the other direction immediately. Trades immediately at the start were made in May from 72%c to 72%c, as compared with from 72%c to 73% at the close on Friday, but it was only a minute or two before 73%c was being paid. It reacted again to 72%c and from that reached 73%c on the next stretch and after another reaction to 73% it went up to 73%c in a few swift and lively bounds. The week's clearances of wheat and flour from both coasts as reported by Bradstreet's were equal to 1,53%,482 bu, compared with 2,075,600 bu, the week before and 2,501,000 bu, the corresponding week of the previous year. Argentine shipments were only 216,600 bu, this week compared with 1,021,000 bu, the corresponding week of the year before. Chicago receipts were 19 cars against 33 a year ago and Manaegolis and Duluth reported only 19% cars compared with 541 last year. The small receipts were ascribed to the blockaded condition of roads and therefore did not attract so much attention as they would otherwise have done. Dispatches from Nebraska also mentioned damage to wheat in that state from winter killing and the pit was kept on the boil during the greater part of the short session. St. Louis was even stronger than Chicago, indicating that more credence was placed in the reports there than here. New York reported four boations of wheat sold early in the session for export and afterwards increased the number to seven loads, Chicago sold 90,000 bu, for shipment to domestic millers. The market closed strong at from 73%c.

Corn was firm all day, helped both by wheat and much smaller receipts than exthat from 15 per cent to the entire area seeded in the state had been winter killed

The market closed strong at from 73%c to 73%c. Corn was firm all day, helped both by wheat and much smaller receipts than expected. Trade was well divided and the range of prices was narrow. Exports were 573,000 bu. May opened unchanged at 24%c, fluctuated between 24%c and 24%@24½c, closing steady at 24%c.

Oats was firm, fairly active and ruled a shade higher all day. There was a good demand from shorts, trading being influenced by the upward trend of wheat. Weekly clearances were 597,000 bu. May opened ½c higher at from 17%c to 17%c, sold to 17%c and closed at the opening price.

The session in provisions was almost a repetition of yesterday's market. Another small run of hogs started prices on the upturn and with the exception of a slight reaction immediately on some realizing the market ruled firm all day. Packers were liberal buyers. At the close May pork was 10c higher at $5.05; May lard, 2½c higher at $4.25, and May ribs 5c higher at $4.62½. Estimated receipts Monday: Wheat, 17 cars; corn, 110 cars; oats, 200 cars; hogs, 25,000 head.

Week Closes with Great Activity and a Broadening Tendency. NEW YORK, March 13.—The market developed a lively activity from the opening of trading today, and dealers made the most of the two hours' of trading allowed on Saturday. The activity extended through all departments of business. The bond markets showed notable strength, and advanced in prices along with that of the stocks. The Vanderbilts took the leading place in the dealings. The high-priced industrials were also in good request. There excemed to be evidence of a powerfol buying interest in the Vanderbilt stocks, which has caused rumbrs to circulate that large holdings of capital are re-entering the market, giving promise of an impetus to the activity in trading. There is also a notable broadening tendency in the market, so that the list of stocks traded in shows the filling in of long gaps with the names of stocks that have been almost entirely neglected of late. The volume of trading is not yet notably large, though the total of today's sales exceeded that in the flye hours' regular trading on each of two successive days of the week. The transactions are also largely for professional account; still an increase is shown in buying by commission houses, and there is a large demand for safe paying divident stocks. The special demand for the Vanderbilt stocks, which has been a factor ever since the amouncement of the plan for refunding the funded debt of the Lake Shore, caused important gains in the leaders of that group, New York Central and St. Louis 28 gaining 2 per cent; Omain. 14, per cent; Canada Southera, 13, per cent, and Cleveland, Cincinnatt, Chicago & Eastern Illinois. Chicago & Eastern Hilmois also gained 2 per cent on the strength of this report. The advance in the early dealings also carried up Sugar a fraction, though on dealings much smaller than the average for that stock, witch again feli to such parts of the chicago & Eastern Hilmois Chicago & Eastern Hilmois also gained 2 per cent to the market in point of activity. The price touched 117. Manhattan was benefited by good buying to the extent of 1% points, reaching 65%, which is substantially the level at the time of the announcement of the reduction of the dividend to the activity extended through all departments of bus-iness. The bond markets showed notable refused to yield, but, ond-the contrary, showed a tendency to advance on even the most trivial buring. This condition of the market, usually savorable to the speculabus, made it difficult to account for the neglect dads reemed to pervade the market. The street was determined to ignore all favorable facture in the stitution and to sit and wait for something to show the way to improvement. The subsidence of the European war scare, the good propect for awakening trade, the continued advaptage to this country in the balance of trade, give secure condition of the currency, and the encouraging reports of increased earnings for rathways were all without effect in awakening anyequivity in the dealings in stocks. There was, gyldence of the extreme caution of investors, schooled as they have been in a long period, of reverse and depression, in the character of swich demand as there was. The gilt-adked stocks, those paying assured dividends, and the well secured bonds showed the desire of capital for certainty and excitity, even at a low rafe of profit, such as would result from the high prices paid for these sociarities. The low rate of interest on money indicates that there is much money lying unproductive rather than verbure in anything that does not promise certain security. This class of capital does not see yet that certainty of gyneral prosperity which it demands for its safety. The high prices which are being paid for the best class of securities gives the to the calculations as to whether the rate of return for invested property and the petce of money has not been permanently placed on a reduced basis. The funding of the Lake Shore debt with Myper cent bonds to run 150 years is pointed to an evidence that capitalists are convinced that purchasers are inclined to run for centain or conditions. The funding of the Lake Shore debt with Alper complete with the health of the price of a stock, the high particle was pointed to anything like a downward to centain the indicate of income of the notable features of the reges usual light Saturday run, there being only 30 cars, 693 head, for which the storms in surrounding territory were undoubtedly re-sponsible. Total supply for the week only 0,248 cattle, against 11,636 last week. There sponsible. Total supply for the week only sponsible. Total supply for the week. There was a fair display of beeves and good butchers' stock, but with nothing ripe or choice in the steer line. Stockers and feeders were in small supply.

While the total cattle receipts were very small and included only a few loads of beef steers, not enough to fairly test the markets, the demand was good for local consumption and the offerings soon changed hands at strong prices, the small supply preventing buyers from discriminating very closely. There were no strictly good cattle here and sales ranged from $3.50 for common odds and ends to $4.20 for very fair cattle which lacked finish. The week's trade has been satisfactory to salesmen on the whole and, as compared with last week's close, today's prices show right around a 15c rise in the market.

Good cows and helfers were eagerly sought after by the dressed meat men and strong prices were quoted by holders of such. Medium to common grades were also free sellers at fully steady prices and the pens were soon emptied of all kinds, the small supply being quite an element of strength. For the week fully a 10c advance is quotable for the general market. Bulls, stags, etc., sold readily and are a little higher than a week ago, while veals are firm at fully best figures last week.

The few stockers and feeders were soon disposed of at full steady prices, which means almost at season's high point for good cattle of all weights, the active demand generated recently having raised values until about all of the decline of last week was wiped out. Representative sales: NATIVES.

HOGS-Although receipts were not at all heavy, only lifty seven loads, there were 1.000 more hoga on sale than last Saturday and the week's total only falls 3.700 short of last week. The quality was better than yesterday and there were less big, heavy packers among the offerings.

Light supplies at all points, caused by storms and bad foads, made sellers very bullish and buyers had to settle. Early sales were Sc higher. The market soon got 55/10c higher and closed at a full 10c advance, with evertyhing cleaned up at an early hour. Extreme trape of prices, $4.702.55, with practically nothing below $3.75, and the bulk of all the sales at $3.75953.50, against $3.75953.50, with $3.70 the long price yesterday. On last Saturday the range was $3.0063.70, with the bulk at $3.55.
